Angela Hanscom at Pine Hill on December 5, 6-8 pm

Angela Hanscom, author of Balanced and Barefoot: How Unrestricted Play Makes for Strong, Confident, and Capable Children, will meet with teachers and staff at Pine Hill School for professional development. Angela's research stresses the importance of making time for unrestricted play in supporting a child's developing vestibular system; strengthening core muscle groups; encouraging social dexterity and resilience; and sparking imagination and creativity - skills that will be indispensable to our young ones in the coming decades. In the evening she will give this same presentation - followed by a group discussion - to parents and guardians in our community. Please register for this event at <http://whoozin.com/WTF-AD7-QH3T>.
